Fall Enrollment Up 25% Over '70

New Students Number 500

Contrary to a fairly prevalent trend, which finds a majority of the private colleges of the country facing fewer new students for Fall '71, Whitworth enrolled about 500 new students . . . frosh and transfers.

Total enrollment for the Fall term is about 1200, as compared with 940 a year ago.

"Young people are seemingly 'turned-on' by what they have heard about what's happening on campus," comments David Morley, Admissions Director. "They've heard about Whitworth's approach to the education of the whole person from kids who were on campus last year, and from our Admissions staff who were extremely active throughout the country."

President Lindaman added, "With the coming of Dr. David Erb as Student Development Director we are all 'high' with the anticipation of having so many young men and women (enrollment will be nearly 1200 for the first time since 1965) who have demonstrated their interest and excitement about what's going on . . . by just being here . . . for Dr. Erb will begin to direct our exciting innovative program in the total development of students."

Erb Speaks

In delineating briefly the goal of the student development program, Dr. David Erb said, "Should a College be as anxious to prepare students to cope with change as it is to impart fundamentals of mathematics? Whitworth's administration answers 'Yes' to this question. They believe that it is important for students to develop themselves in all areas of life: emotionally, physically, spiritually and intellectually.

"One very important aspect of Whitworth's focus on student development is the willingness of the faculty and staff to become involved with students outside the classroom. Students and faculty contribute greatly to each other's growth as they discuss important personal and social issues.

"Another aspect of this focus is the newly established office of student development. Employing the resources of psychologists and counselors, the program is designed to help students learn more about themselves.

"Using seminars, films, role playing, groups and speakers, the student development staff hopes to help students grapple with the following questions: (1) how can I relate to people more effectively? (2) how can I cope with a changing vocational world? (3) what conditions are necessary for me to learn most effectively? (4) what does it mean to be a man or woman in this society? and (5) what are the most important values in life?

"Wrestling with these and other questions is an important aspect of an educational experience which endeavors to prepare students to cope successfully with the demands of the future."

The Student Development Program is headed by Dr. Erb, a psychologist who recently joined the College staff from the U of Delaware. He, along with a capable staff, is developing a unique and comprehensive program to help students in the complex process of becoming mature persons.

The entering class of 1971 expressing their corporate identity in fingerpaints and magic markers. Their individual identity is expressed on the cards around the wall: at Whitworth, both are important. This is one of a series of activities planned by the Student Development Staff to orient students during the first week of the term. In the picture in the right-hand column workmen scramble to ready dorm rooms in the north wing of Grieve Hall.

3rd Thursday Forum Resumes Schedule

With the topic, "Why Do We Feel So Alienated?", Dr. David Winter, College Vice President and Academic Dean, is reactivating the popular "Third Thursday Forum" program in Seattle.

The first meeting, to which Seattle professional and business men are invited was held on September 16. On October 21 Dr. Winter will deliver the second section of his topic.

Dr. Edward B. Lindaman, President of Whitworth, will speak at the November 18th and December 16th luncheons.

The noon luncheon meetings are held in Seattle's Washington Athletic Club. Anyone interested in attending may contact Whitworth Development Department or Kenneth Myers, Seattle, MA 2-1269.

Committee Seeks New Pirate Athletic Director

Dr. Duncan Ferguson, Acting Director of Athletics and chairman of the seeking committee, reports that his committee is actively engaged in finding potential candidates for the position of Athletic Director.

The committee members, representing the various interested constituencies are: Dr. Ferguson (Chairman), Dr. A. Ross Cutter (Physical Education Department), Dr. William L. Johnson (Faculty), Mr. Hugh Campbell (Athletic Department), Dr. Walter Spangenberg (Alumni), Dr. William Lindsay (Trustees), Greg Hatch (Students), and Dr. David Winter (ex officio and Administration).

Dr. Ferguson said that several names of well qualified candidates have already been submitted, and that the committee would welcome more suggestions by friends and alumni of the college. He pointed out that the committee will not be rushed in its effort and is determined to find just the right person for the position.

"Reach In-Reach Out" Success -First in a Program Series

"It was exciting to use my mind again . . ." "I found myself becoming excited about the developments going on at Whitworth especially in the area of student development." Too bad that more parents of students were not able to attend. "The Christ-centered approach made sense."

The weekend of August 5th through 8th marked a "first" on the Campus. An exciting "mix" of students, faculty, alums and parents engaged in a project in continuing education, called "Reach-In - Reach Out."

Three general areas of interest were explored with the assistance of faculty and administrators. Dr. Duncan Ferguson, Director of Christian Life, spearheaded in a section, "Youth Culture."

President Lindaman was involved in two sections, "Ecology" and "Whitworth Today."

Other Whitworth personnel involved were Dave Erb, Phil Eaton, Frank Houser, Dave Hicks, Nicky Gray, Jackie Fick, Dave Winter.

It was a family affair. While the adults turned their full attention to the topic presentations, the children were being taken care of in recreational, arts and crafts activities.

How interested can you be? Parents and the kids were all pretty well satisfied with the first "Reach-In Reach-Out" family learning experience.

Dorm rooms were opened and some families camped out on "the back forty."

Another evaluation included . . . "I am really impressed by the forward look of Whitworth and their dynamic understanding of the problems of education and student problems. The speakers helped me to reach in and change some of my attitudes toward myself and others."

Why not plan to attend next summer?

Obedience to the Unenforceable

William Hutchinson Cowles, L.L.D., one of Whitworth's most distinguished trustees, died on August 12, 1971. Dr. Cowles had been a member of the Whitworth College Board of Trustees for eleven years, during which time he devoted himself tirelessly to the advancement of the College. He was also one of the great benefactors of Whitworth College.

Two major buildings on campus are the result of his generosity. One is the William H. Cowles Memorial Auditorium, built in memory of his father. The other is the Harriet Cheney Cowles Memorial Library, dedicated to the memory of his mother. Everyone who knew Bill Cowles loved him. He was a man of grace, ability, wisdom, and humility.

Those of us who live on campus walk in and out of these two buildings each day with a very real consciousness of his shared gift. That is Whitworth College. Names like Warren, Graves, McEachran, Arend, Hardwick, Stewart all point to the dedication and love of other great men.

Lord Moulton once said that every man lives under the discipline of three domains. The first one is the domain of the positive law which prescribes rules of conduct and exacts due penalties for disobedience. The second is the domain of free choice. It is covered by no statute or law. The third is that domain in which neither positive law nor free choice prevails.

In the third domain an individual imposes obligations upon himself. He is not wholly free, in that he has accepted self-imposed responsibility. In this he is certain of two things: . . . no individual can compel him to fulfill his commitment . . . he cannot disobey it without betraying himself.

Moulton said that the health of a democratic society, to a very large degree, is measured in terms of the quality of services and the gifts rendered by citizens who act in "obedience to the unenforceable." That phrase is a beautiful expression of the spirit that lies behind gifts given to Whitworth College.

Each day dozens of letters cross my desk. Many letters contain checks large and small. Each gift is from someone who lives in that "third domain." They are gifts of concern and support for the purposes we endeavor to fulfill in the lives of students entrusted to us. But even more than that, they are from people all over the United States who have declared an obedience to that which is unenforceable. They reflect obedience to an inner vision that what is being done is of God. It is done without the threat of statute or the pale non-threat of doing nothing at all.

I wish it were possible for me to describe in words the significant role such gifts play in furnishing vitality to the college goals.

William Cowles will live on in our memory through his gifts. The real greatness of Whitworth College is measured by the extent to which its supporters live in "obedience to the unenforceable."

Cowles Memorial "Press" Books from Editors

An early gift received by the College in memory of one of our most distinguished Trustees, William Hutchinson Cowles, was that from the Spokane Editorial Society, Chuck Rehberg, President.

The Society suggested that their gift be used to purchase "texts or reference materials about the press."

Journalism Department Chairman Alfred O. Gray made the selection of the materials.

The College has received a number of other gifts of this type; Mr. Cowles' survivors having suggested that memorials be sent to the College.

Pelluer, Former Cinder Coach Accident Victim

John Arnold Pelluer, for five years track and crosscountry coach at Whitworth, and since 1970 serving in the same capacities at EWSC, was an apparent drowning victim on September 18th.

Arnie's wife Joan Dee is currently an Instructor in the Whitworth College Education Department.

He is also survived by three sons, Scott, Steven and Arnie all at home.

The sympathies of the entire College community, and of all members of the athletic community, are extended to Jodee.

Thos. L. Thompson Pioneer Rancher Makes Headlines

T. L. Thompson, Whitworth Trustee since 1954, received a two-picture, biographical accolade in a recent issue of the Tri-City Herald, of Pasco-Kennewick.

The paper's staff writer, Bill Howard, detailed Thompson's life as a wheat and cattle man in the Connell, Washington area since he arrived there in November of 1915.

"After half a century of eating the fine dust south of Connell," writes Harris, "He now owns nearly 5,000 acres, runs a herd of registered Angus cattle and is on the board of Whitworth College in Spokane."

The article continued to recount Mr. Thompson's life, in Washington as well as throughout other sections of the mid-and far-west.

Three Retirees 125 Years in the Classroom

Nearly 125 years of teaching experience, 92 years at the college level, is the accumulated record of three Whitworth College faculty members who retired with the end of the Spring '71 term.

The three and their individual Whitworth service records are: John A. Carlson, Professor of Mathematics, 36 years; Ernestine Evans, Associate Professor of Business Education, 30 years; and Mae Whitten, Associate Professor of English, 26 years.

After four years of teaching at high school level in Pendleton, Oregon, and Davenport, Washington, Mr. Carlson was appointed to the Whitworth Mathematics Department faculty in 1935. His B.S. and M.S. degrees are both from the University of Washington Math Department, 1931-34. Mr. Carlson served as head of the Whitworth department for many years before his retirement.

Mrs. Carlson, John, Miss Evans, Miss Whitten

Miss Evans began her teaching career in Illinois, with experience in Cheney, Hunters, Sunset, Reardan High School and Yakima Davis High before coming to the Whitworth Business Education faculty in 1941. Both her B.A. and M.A. degrees are from Washington State University.

Beginning with high school teaching experience in several California school systems, Miss Whitten came to the Whitworth English Department Staff in 1945. She secured B.A. and B.E. degrees from Stanford University and a M.A. from Whitworth.

Mr. Carlson and Miss Whitten have planned to continue educational pursuits in their retirement.

Miss Evans is moving to Yakima to live with relatives there.

New Trustees to Board at Fall '71 Meeting

Three more outstanding enthusiastic college supporters are elected Trustees of Whitworth College and will assume their positions on the Board with the regular Fall meeting to be held on the Campus September 30 and October 1.

Named to fill a position in the Trustee Class of 1974 is Dr. Michael D. Anderson, pastor of the University Presbyterian Church, Tacoma. Mike is a Whitworth grad of 1956.

Added to the Class of 1973 is a Spokane alumnae Mrs. James E. Chase. Mrs. Chase is a well-known vocalist in the Inland Empire. As Eleanor Barrow she was an outstanding College musician, graduating from Whitworth in 1941.

The widow of a most-distinguished Spokane man, Mrs. Eric Johnston has been named to a position in the Class of 1974. The estate of the late Mr. Johnston contributed graciously to the construction fund for the famous Eric Johnston Memorial Science Center on the Campus.

The Fall '71 meeting of the College Board will convene at the College on Thursday, September 30 so that Trustees may have the opportunity to "live" with students — attend classes, rap in the dorms, eat in the dining hall, share the social events.

The business meeting will be called for 9:00 a.m. on Friday, October 1st.

"Teahouse-Moon" Nov. Drama Fare

The Whitworth Speech and Theatre Departments will present the popular comedy, "Teahouse of the August Moon" in two consecutive weekend performances November 12 and 13, 19 and 20.

Theatrical innovations of the production will feature a tunneling effect in Cowles Memorial Auditorium to give the audience a small-theatre atmosphere.

The traditional Thursday night performance has been eliminated in favor of the two consecutive weekend presentations.

It wasn't all snakes and rats (although the group of 40 elementary teachers from the Mead School District doesn't appear to panic over them) in the National Science Foundation financed "Co-operative College-School Science Program."

The College received a grant of nearly $26,000 for this program which will continue throughout the 1971-72 school year.

Non-science oriented men and women were assisted to become better science teachers for their elementary students.

Kellogg Grant Boosts Environmental Study Plan

A grant of $5,000 from the W. K. Kellogg Foundation, Battle Creek, Michigan, was received by Whitworth in support of the College's "Resources for Environmental Studies Program."

The funding will be used in the purchase of extensive, interdisciplinary books representing current and future student environmental resource needs.

The selection committee to purchase the books are: Dr. David L. Hicks, Associate Professor of Biology; Robert A. Clark, Assistant Professor of Sociology; Dan C. Sanford, Assistant Professor of Political Science; Dr. Harry Dixon, Professor of Economics and Business; Bernadine F. Peterson, Assistant Professor of Education; Philip W. Eaton, Assistant Professor of English; and Head Librarian, Audrey Turner.

Student members of the selection committee are, from Spokane: Stephen C. Johnson, Cathy J. Logsdon, Gregory A. Schuster, David W. Johnstone.

And from Polson, Montana, Jack W. Dutzar.

Whitworth College, has been featuring unique student experiences in ecological and environmental areas for several years. In just the past academic year there were course offerings in Environmental Biology, Western Civilization III — Science (Quality of Life), and The City, during the Spring Term.

During the January term special courses, designed to get the student off the campus and into real-life confrontations, were offered. For example: Environmental Health, Environmental Contamination.

During the summer term a classroom course, Human Ecology, was taught. In addition a course, Wilderness Experience was team-taught by two Biology and one Psychology professor. The course included a one-week field experience in the North Cascades Wilderness area.

"Youngest Qualified" Assume Department Leadership Roles

Effective with the Summer Terms, the College instituted a new academic structure in which the chairmen of most of the academic departments have been changed under a new rotation system.

The result is the appointment of the youngest, fully-qualified member of the department as its chairman. The average age of the 22 chairmen is 45 years.

"In most cases," interpreted Dr. David K. Winter, Whitworth Vice President and Academic Dean, "This means that the professor with most recently earned doctorate was named and many of these new chairmen are young people who otherwise would not have been appointed to the post for many years."

"Many of our senior professors deserve a relief from the administrative duties involved in the chairmanship. To rotate through this position with its responsibilities is important for all our faculty, at the earliest opportunity, but to remain there indefinitely is not appropriate or effective. Resuming their duties as full-time scholars and professors has been a welcome change for our senior faculty members.

"On the other hand, our younger faculty are frequently frustrated in their energy and ideas by not having direct and significant roles in the development and the approval of academic change. As department chairmen these young faculty have the chance to learn the procedures of college organization and methods for producing change, and thereby make significant contributions to the College much sooner than they would in the more traditional system of chairmanship by seniority."

The new department chairmen are:

STOCKER

Whittier Pastor Stocker Assists at Top Level

Herbert A. Stocker joined the College administrative staff on September 1st as Administrative Assistant to President Lindaman and Vice President Winter.

"Herb" has held four pastorates: Rome, New York; Fullerton, Wilmington and Whittier, California.

Following the Peruvian earthquake, he was appointed Southern California Coordinator of "Operation Peruquake," where he organized a highly successful effort which secured a record amount of relief supplies.

For the past two years he has also been coordinator of "Grassroot, Again," a unique community ecological coalition now being duplicated in several cities.

Faculty Lead Young Life Rep Training Sessions

Beginning September 11th, and continuing throughout the Fall and Winter, monthly training sessions for Young Life reps of the Inland Empire will be held on the Campus.

Faculty members and administrators are being scheduled to lead these sessions designed to better equip the Young Life organizers to carry out their mission at the individual local level.

To date the schedule reads this way:

Sept. 11—Dr. David K. Winter
"The Marks of a Christian Leader" and
Dr. David L. Erb
"Youth Culture"
Oct. 23—Dr. David Dilworth
"Doctrines of Man"
Nov. 13—Dr. Clarence Simpson
"Old Testament Study"

solution of socio-economic needs.

Other papers presented Christian viewpoints on ecology, abortion, productivity of the Holy Land, research in religious institutions.

Damps on Leave Doctoral Work Calls Both

George E. Damp, Assistant Professor of Music, will be on leave of absence during the academic year 1971-72.

George and his wife, Alice, have received graduate teaching awards from the Eastman School of Music, Rochester, New York.

These awards give them the opportunity of a full year of residence at Eastman. They expect to complete a great deal of work toward their respective doctoral degrees.

DAMP

"Noye's Fludde" in Music and Song October Production

Youth choirs from six Spokane Lutheran and Presby churches, the Spokane Youth Orchestra and Junior Symphony, augmented by guest soloists will present Benjamin Britten's "Noye's Fludde" (Noah's Flood) in Cowles Memorial Auditorium October 15 and 16.

"Noah's Flood" is told in music and song written by Benjamin Britten. Leonard B. Martin, Associate Professor of Music, is general director and conductor for the production.

George Rodkey, Whitworth alum, will sing the part of Noah. Jean Haras, of EWSC, will be Mrs. Noah.

Three Development Changes Completes Staff

A newcomer and two staff reassignments in the College Development Department announced by R. Donald Weber, Director, brings the departmental staff to full strength.

Robert L. Campbell has been engaged as Director of Annual Giving, and reported for duty on September 15, 1971.

Bob comes to the College from a position as Director of Public Relations for Mercy Hospital, Des Moines, Iowa.

Mr. Campbell's background includes sports information director for two colleges, advertising director of a paint company, staff representative in the Young Life program, and church youth director.

He is a graduate of Michigan State University. His wife's name is Terese. They have two children.

Pilcher Change

After one year as Whitworth track and field coach, Larry Pilcher has accepted the position of Director of Church Relations, in the Development Department.

Larry graduated from Whitworth in 1962 and was active in elementary and secondary education and athletics in California schools before his return to Whitworth.

Pilcher will continue to coach the Pirate crosscountry harriers.

Watkins Switch

Perry Watkins has served as Director of Alumni Activities since 1969. In mid-summer of 1971 he accepted the new post in the Development Department of Director of Estate Planning.

Perry is a 1960 Whitworth grad and has a background in business and education throughout the Pacific Northwest in the ten years he was away from the campus.

813 Summer Visitors Welcomed to Campus

During the three-month summer period the College accommodated 813 men, women and children in camps, conferences, seminars on campus. In addition, a full three-term summer school academic program was carried out.

Cinda Warner, College Conference Coordinator, handled the arrangements for the independent as well as the college-sponsored events. She hastens to acknowledge the impossibility of the task without the cooperation of the College Maintenance personnel, Business Office people, Audio Visual department staff, and Kevin Sell, SAGA Manager.

Quickie summary of those who visited us during the summer:

June 13 - 16 — Washington State High School Coaches Clinic, 124 men.
June 17 - 20 — Theonetics: God, Man, and the City, 17 high school seniors.
June 19 - 21 — Presbyterian Youth Chorale, 78 people.

July 5 - 9 — Indian Youth Caravan, 24 members of 13 tribes.
July 21 - 25 — Methodist School of Christian Mission, 251 people.
July 28 - 30 — American Lutheran Women's Leadership School — 121 women.
August 1 - 6 — Esmeralda Jr. Golf Tournament, 22 participants.
August 5 - 8 — "REACH IN — REACH OUT," 17 adults, 6 children.
August 7 — Coeur d'Alene Presbyterian Tour Group, 28 kids, 5 adults.
August 15 - 20 — American Scientific Affiliation, 57 adults, 19 children.
August 17 - 19 — Instituto Mexicano Norte Americano de Relaciones Culturales de Zacatecas Tour Group, 25 people.
August 20 - 22 — Northwest District Church of the Nazarene Sunday School Superintendent's Conference, 70 adults.

Spokane P.R. Council Meets

Twenty-seven members of the Spokane Public Relations Council were guests of the College for breakfast in Leavitt Dining Hall recently.

College administrators . . . Lindaman, Erb and Ferguson discussed the new College student development planning just beginning to unfold. Most particularly, Duncan Ferguson, in his role as interim Athletic Director, interpreted how athletics were a part of the entire student development program.

The P.R. Council includes public relations practitioners from Inland Empire industry and business establishments.

FORUM

Beginning with the Fall Term ... each Tuesday and Thursday at 10 a.m. (except of vacation periods and January Term) a program series called FORUM is being presented to the Whitworth community.

The series will include films, musical presentations, speakers, faculty and student participation.

In launching the FORUM Duncan Ferguson, Director of Christian Life, said, "I'm convinced the FORUM has tremendous potential and can become the hub of our common life together. It has vast potential for building a sense of community, it provides a setting for all of us to jointly grapple with the really significant issues facing our community, nation and world, and of course gives us an ideal context for thoughtful Christian education and proclamation."

Programs organized for the months of September and October are:

- Sept. 21—Film: "Seasons of the '70s"
 Sept. 23—Richard L. Harriman, Executive Assistant to Dr.
 Paul Ehrlich, and co-author of "How to be a Survivor:

"Personal Contact Brings College, Churches Together"

Pilcher Goes to Synod Churches

Larry Pilcher, new Director of Church Relations (see story page 3), has spent a majority of his time on the road in his camper this summer.

He says, "For the past seven weeks I have traveled extensively throughout the State and also visited a number of California churches in an effort to meet the pastors in the Washington Synod and as many as possible who are not in the Synod, but have interest in the College.

"I believe that it is through personal contact that we can bring Whitworth and the Church closer together. We can then help Whitworth become a more vital associate of the Church as well as perform a genuine service for the Church.

"My experiences with the College continue to have a profound impact on my life. I graduated from Whitworth in 1962 solidly convinced that the uniqueness of the school is reflected in its strong stand for Jesus Christ, its attainment for academic excellence, and the personalization of its various programs. Whitworth continues as a vital experience for young people seeking a total education. "We are pleased to be associated with the Synod of Washington/Alaska as their College. A greater involvement of the College with the Church is our goal. At the same time, we must expect the financial support of the many churches."

Huber, Warner Assume New Student Service Duties

Robert Huber, for several years Director of Student Activities, has taken on the additional responsibilities of the office of Director of Career Planning, in the Student Development area.

Bob will expand the services of the placement office to bring more employment opportunities and vocational guidance to students as well as alumni. Full and part-time jobs will be sought.

"Alums who hope to benefit from our expanded and concentrated efforts in career planning, should be sure that their files are up to date in our office," said Huber. "Drop me a line and we'll get cracking on it!"

Cinda Warner, since January the Coordinator of Conferences on Campus has transferred to the office of the Director of Christian Life, Dr. Duncan Ferguson. She will serve as his assistant, concentrating her efforts in the development of special programming.

THINK ON WHOLENESS

Whitworth
College

A gift to help people receive a Christian education simultaneously can be

A means of guaranteed income for life to you and yours

Whitworth sees Christ as a model of wholeness and to that end builds its programs. You can help fulfill that program.

Whitworth College will pay an annual income to you or anyone you love at rates from 5% to 10% per year depending upon your age, in exchange for money or property (savings, securities or real estate).

Our government encourages this type of giving so you can enjoy these benefits:

1. A guaranteed income for the rest of your life (lives).
2. Reduction or avoidance of probate, capital gains and estate taxes.
3. Immediate Federal Tax Credit.
4. Mostly tax free income.
5. Relief from management worries and market fluctuations.

Your gift will also establish a memorial fund named by you to help meet a vitally important need for this day . . . relevant Christian higher education. Behind every agreement are the total resources, over $10-million of Whitworth College.

Deferred Givers Now Served

Watkins Assumes Leadership

Perry Watkins, formerly Alumni Activities Director, now heads the vitally important new area within the Development Department . . . Deferred Giving. A 1960 graduate of Whitworth, Perry has a varied background of teaching, coaching and business since leaving the campus.

Attacking his new responsibilities with enthusiasm, he said, "Being Alumni Director for two years gave me an excellent opportunity to gain an objective impression of these new duties before stepping into the role.

"Two very significant concepts became apparent: (1) A great many people are in critical need of competent comprehensive estate planning counsel. The increased restrictions of the 1969 Tax Reform Act add to the acuteness of this need.

(2) Often people recognize their need in this area but hesitate to act, not knowing where to turn for assistance.

"An emerging emphasis of Whitworth is to serve the community wherever needs exist. Specialized training has placed this department in a unique position to provide an all-encompassing estate planning service.

"Frequently people have high hopes for what their estates will do for their loved ones and favorite charities, only to find that the estate is substantially depleted by taxes because no comprehensive plan was worked out prior to their death.

"We stand ready to help anyone who is facing problems in taxation or estate planning. There is no charge for the service. Whether or not you consult the College Deferred Gifts Department, we do urge you to obtain competent assistance immediately."
